Murphy proposes a hold on Mariposa

Following a presentation at the Chamber of Commerce meeting by Don Murphy, Sierra Madre architect, David May made the motion that the chamber and Main Street submit to the City Council a recommendation for a study to be made concerning itegration of the parking area and buildings along Sierra Madre Blvd. in a feasible, long-range approach to the URM program, with the study not to exceed 90 days.

Two members of the board, Christopher Valencia and Ruth Salem, voted against the measure with other board members voting for it.

Valencia owns Christopher's Jewelry and Salem owns Right Way Travel. Valencia said, "It's as ridiculous to put the Mariposa Parking Lot off as to put planters in the meridian . . . It's ridiculous to put it (the parking lot construction) off again . . . Let's get the parking lot done now and modify it later."

Murphy's proposal is to "develop a study of the integration of the parking area to the street frontage by opening a vehicular and visual access to this area. This would involve the removal of six to eight existing stores and relocating them to a commercial development within the new parking area. They would have visual access off Sierra Madre Blvd."

Murphy further enumerates: "Develop a means of city assistance in interest right down to funding to help bridge the gap between URM reconstruction and new construction . . . develop a study of the remaining street orientated to the new commercial area while maintaining their Sierra Madre Blvd. facade."

Murphy defended his proposal by saying that the new marketing study (ERA) had indicated "an atrophying trend." He continued, "Strip retail is not an optimal conclusion."

Councilman Roy Buchan, who was present at the board meeting, said, "I can understand the concern (of Valencia with the delay of the parking lot building) . . . However, I agree with Don . . . I have been worried about starting (the Mariposa lot building) in January. We'll be swimming in mud. As far as I'm concerned that parking lot is going to be developed. At the same time, I think Don has a very good point of view.

Celeste McCreary 'Citizen of Year'

Celeste McCreary was presented to the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce Board Tuesday morning as the 1990 Citizen of the Year. McCreary will be honored officially at the chamber installation/Citizen of the Year dinner Thursday, Jan. 18.

Among her many accomplishments throughout the years of living in Sierra Madre are the following: treasurer of Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility Auxiliary 1989, plus every year since 1978, except 1981 to 1984 when she was president; member of the Sierra Madre Rose Float Association and president, 1986-87, treasurer for three years of 1983 to 1986; member of Sierra Madre Historical Society, president from October 1978 to 1980 and treasurer, Oct. 1974 to 1978; member of the Fourth of July Parade Committee for the last four years.

Recipe treasures count down

Both gourmet chefs and everyday cooks have been scouring Sierra Madre businesses for the free Cooking Treasures of Sierra Madre recipes available each week in the Main Street six-week promotion.

The variety of give-away recipes being handed out by 36 different businesses includes Oriental, French, German, Polish, Swiss, Italian, Mexican, Greek, Middle Eastern, Australian and Swedish dishes among the offerings of international cuisine.

Among more traditional fare are recipes from the Old South, New England, Tennessee, the West Hawaii, Alaska and all-around good ol' American Mom's cookin'.

Each business has a different recipe available and a number may still have some of this week's cards available.

Next week will mark the grand finale of the promotion and each business will have two different recipes free for the asking, a total of 72 recipe cards. Some cards contain more than one recipe.

Eight culinary categories are covered each week: hors d' oeuvres, salads, soups, breads, side dishes, main courses, desserts and miscellaneous.

The event is being sponsored by the Main Street Promotions Committee as part of its holiday downtown program of events and over-all goal of attracting more shoppers and pedestrian traffic to the central business district.

A list of recipes which will be available next week follows, together with a list of the participating business (see ad).

Judy Webb-Martin to head chamber

At Tuesday morning's Chamber of Commerce Board meeting Judy Webb-Martin was voted in as president, replacing Cecilia Larson who has held the position for two years.

Webb-Martin is a partner in Webb-Gordon Real Estate and Larson owns Petite Beauty Salon.

Liz Even of Sanwa Bank will be first vice president and John Sheridan, postmaster of Sierra Madre, will be second vice president. Joan Sheets, who owns Little Stuga, will become treasurer, and Marguerite Bowman of Welcome Wagon will continue as clerk of the board.

They will be installed at the installation/ Citizen of the Year dinner Thursday, Jan. 18.

Love Lights a Tree brings $3500

Tim Connaghan of the American Cancer Society announced Tuesday morning that $3500 had been collected by the society through the Sierra Madre Love Lights a Tree program and that, unfortunately, the society has decided that they would not renew the program for next year. He explained that the society had barely met expenses in the drive to place lights and angels on the Kersting Court trees.

Listed below are the recipients of both angels and donations in the Love Lights a Tree program. Those persons finding needed corrections or wishing to add names with donations should contact the society at 795-7774.

Angels are in memory of the following:

Valjean Anderson, Grandma Anger, Kui Barila, William Barnes, Chap and Gay Burton, Harley Christianson, Grace Connaghan, John Dodge, Delores M. Egan, Shirley Ferra, Renee Fisher (2), Charlotte Freedman, William P. Gruber, Marie Hess, Hank Hinshaw, "Hap" Hutson, Betty Kirkwood, Mr. Kramar, Harry A. Lange, Wesley Lewis, Robert F. Lucci Jr. and Natalie Lyon.

Other angels are in memory of Jeffrey D. McCarthy, Nancy Fader Miller, Nancy Miller, James Murray, Lois Murray, Donald Plaunt, Jerry Roney, Ralph R. Rule (2), Robert Schrodt, F.T. Sheets Jr., Douglas G. Spencer Sr., Josephine J. Strommer, Anna and John Stiloski (2), Ruth Stiver, Harold J. Thunes, The Tyler Children, Price Walker, Hugh A. Warden (2), Veronica F. LIGHTING SPLENDOR — The lighting ceremonies were over and Sierra Madreans milled around, visiting with friends, then went to the sjops that stayed open until 8 p.m. Lights blaze in Kersting Court every evening through Christmas, accompanied by the strains of Christmas music.

Comment

Safety at Christmas

Fire Chief Edward Tracy and Fire Marshal William Kramer ask that you follow these tips for a safe Holiday Season.

Safety and your Christmas tree:

A cut tree is like a cut flower — neither will last very long without water. A Christmas tree purchased from a lot or cut on a tree farm can remain relatively fire resistant if you follow these simple steps:

- Clean the tree stand with a capful of bleach mixed with water. This reduces the growth of organisms that can block the tree's intake of water.
- Select a fresh tree with needles which do not pull easily from branches and do not break when gently bent.
- Consider having your tree sprayed with a State Fire Marshal approved flame retardant chemical. This will not make the tree flame proof, but will help with its fire resistance.
- Recut the trunk at least one inch above the old cut and put it into water immediately.
- Most important, keep the tree in water. Check the water level in the stand daily and refill with lukewarm water. Commercial floral preservatives can be added.
- Locate the tree away from heat sources (including television sets). Be careful not to block exitways with the tree or rearranged furniture.
- Use only U.L. (Underwriters Laboratories) approved miniature type tree lights to reduce drying effect. Do not connect more than 200 midget lights together through one string or cord.
- Check lights before putting them on the tree. Replace sets if bare wires or bulb filaments are exposed, sockets are cracked or broken, or plugs and connectors have loose or missing inserts.
- Never leave a lighted tree unattended, or leave lights on for prolonged periods of time. Turn the lights off and the heat down when leaving the house or retiring for the night.
- Remove the tree from the house as soon as possible after Christmas.

Never burn a Christmas tree or package wrappings in a fireplace or wood stove.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

- When I edited Ron Hutson's Main Street column, I realized that he was saying many of the things about the tree-lighting ceremony I had wanted to say. And that everyone else in Sierra Madre was saying.

Yes, it was a memorable evening. Yes, it surely is the first of many annual tree-lighting ceremonies. And yes, Tim Connaghan did an admirable job of making this town look and sound great.

As I write this column, I can hear the Christmas music drifting in through the door and I can see the masses of twinkling lights all over Kersting Court. It is, indeed, a wonderful time for Sierra Madre.

One of the best parts of the evening Saturday were the droves of families who came down for the ceremony. Little children in their parents' arms. Children in strollers, small children on bikes with their parents. Young people on bikes or just walking around, staring at the trees before they were lighted.

They were all there. Many Sierra Madreans who came to see another tradition begin in their town. And it surely will be a tradition, without a doubt.

Even with the announcement this week that the American Cancer Society chooses not to be involved in next year's tree-lighting in Sierra Madre won't deter us. We can do it ourselves. With the marvelous number of volunteers who always seem to show up when they are most needed we will simply put it all together again. And we hope that Tim Connaghan will help us again.

Every evening I want to come to Kersting Court to look. Actually, I am here about every evening. But the sight of that "angel" tree with varicolored Christmas tree lights and the rest of the court with cascades of small lights scribbling the pepper trees, and also the swirls of lights on the ficus — that's what Christmas in Sierra Madre is all about.

After the Christmas songs and brief ceremony, on went the lights and everyone "ohhhed" and "aahhed." More music, murmurs. People were walking under the trees, getting the feel of Christmas. No, it wasn't snowing. Yes, it was a balmy fall night in Sierra Madre, warm enough for suits and sweaters. But the Christmas spirit and the thoughts of the miracle of this season were there.

Aren't we lucky to live in Sierra Madre? With shining eyes, you're all saying, "Yes."

- Every year we seem to choose great "Citizens of the Year," and this year is another marvelous choice. Celeste McCreary. Now there is a woman who has taught us all how to be a good volunteer.

What a beautiful and deserving "Citizen" she will make this year.

Our sincerest congratulations to a special lady, Celeste.

- Remember last week when we announced that Joe Delgatto was retiring from his Santa role and had hung up his suit? Not so. Actually, what happend is that he changed his mind, just a little bit, when he was cajoled into one more final bit of fun at Bullock's in Pasadena.

In the Special Reports on Living, Nov. - Jan. issue, Joe is described, "It's been the same Santa for at least five years, a very old man who really wears glasses. He looks like a Santa Claus . . ."

Joe also flipped on the lights on Lake Avenue Friday.

Again, Joe, we're glad you're back being Santa if for only a short time.

- Jim Tyler has been suffering with an uncomfortable knee. He had a knee replacement Oct. 26, then felt great for awhile but was soon back in the hospital with an infection. He's home now, not watching the soap operas but wondering when he'll be back up on his feet.

He would probably like a phone call, visit or card.

- I saw Ralph Hurwit on the street Thursday morning and he said he'd just "got off the golf course."

Even though he looks great, he says he'll be going back into the hospital — Santa Teresita — for surgery again. He will be out of the hospital by Christmas though. We'll keep you all informed about his recovery.

History of local CRA

This letter was sent to the City Council with a copy to The News. Ed.

The CRA doesn't have the power of eminent domain. I heard that criticism last night and I just had to respond. Evidentally, not everyone knows the CRA history.

In 1974, when I was mayor, the CRA attitude was "zero for" and "12,000 against." The city faced enormous financial troubles and had a condemned city hall and police and fire facility.

I saw 92 other CRAs sucking Sierra Madre's taxes into their bank accounts.

And, horrors, beyond doing this for 10 years, they were renewing them for another 10 years.

I hate CRAs, but promoted discussions about starting one in our city. All the comments were the same: "Just mention CRA and we'll not only recall you but tar and feather you as well."

Still, I went ahead and formed a study committee of the best minds in the city. They and the City Council held numerous public hearings. The one thing that was emphasized was that the CRA could not take anyone's property. With that restriction included, the CRA was eventually formed.

CRAs are bad news, but Sierra Madre did get lots of money, enough for a police and fire facility, a city hall, hundreds of ways to assist in city financing and by liberal interpretation, a fire truck and police addition.

Ten years up, and now we extended it for another 10 years.

A CRA for the M-1 zoned manufacturing district is vital to our city. It's now a slum area and it could be beautiful, a supplier of jobs and a lot of sales tax money to the city. Who, among you, will stand up and promote a new CRA? Or, who, among you, will criticize the old CRA, and sock it to the citizens with increased fees?

Hunter, hunted need to be remembered

I would like to express by grateful thanks to Bruce Cahill, a county Agricultural Commission tracker, for his humane attitude and remarks regarding a recent sighting of a cougar or mountain lion in Walnut Creek Park.

Commenting after a meeting attended by biologists, officials of the state Department of Fish and Game and himself, Cahill is reported to have said "We were checking all bases to make sure we're treating the public fairly and the mountain lions fairly."

And now I'd like to help everyone to also treat coyotes fairly. Because we have reduced the coyote's natural food sources by building more and more homes on his territory in the foothills, he is now forced to come down in search of food which he finds in our garbage cans, pet dishes and gardens. As the coyote still regards this as his territory, we can expect him to fight if he comes across another small animal on his feeding ground.

We do not want to eliminate the coyote from the foothills because he helps us by feeding on rodents and other plague-carrying animals such as ground squirrels, but to reduce any danger to our pets, we must discourage him from feeding in our neighborhoods. I therefore offer the following list of do's and don'ts as an effective and humane way to avoid dangerous encounters with our coyote neighbors.

Do teach children to recognize coyotes. Do keep pets inside a secure fence or inside the house. Do securely fence yards and gardens. Do bang pans or make other noise to scare any coyote found near your home. Do report any sighting of coyotes in residential areas to your local animal control authority.

Don't ever feed a coyote. Don't allow rodents to build up in trash piles or in weeds. Don't plant any extensive ground cover. And please, don't ever shoot or otherwise harm a coyote. Just call animal control.

If anyone cannot recognize a coyote or distinguish one from a domestic animal, they should come to see "Wiley," our resident coyote at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society, 851 E. Grand Ave., San Gabriel. Call us at (818) 386-1159 or (818) 443-1861.

CAPITAL WANDERINGS

By Ron Pulling, Washington Correspondent

Holiday season is again with us. Thanksgiving morning we awoke to a blanket of four inches of snow completely covering our lawn, driveway and streets. Snowfall in Washington is very unpredictable. Some years we may not have more than an inch or so and other years, several major storms. This year, a friend of mine took his children toboganning on the golf course on Thanksgiving and played golf on the same course on the following Sunday. Next spring, I'll be able to tell you whether or not winter was mild or severe.

Florance and I continued a family Thanksgiving practice of inviting those who could not join their loved ones to share the day with us. We thoroughly enjoyed the company of two young men from Egypt and a young lady from Greece who are temporarily located here.

While department stores and the advertising media appear to start promoting Christmas earlier each year, I think the season officially begins when the President turns the lights on the Nation's Christmas tree. This year, it is a 38-foot Colorado spruce and the switch is thrown Dec. 14, a tradition started by President Coolidge in 1923. The large tree will be surrounded by 50 other trees, each representing an individual state. This panorama is presented on the Ellipse just off the White House lawn. It reminds me of former days when we would get in the car and drive down Christmas Tree Lane in Altadena to look at all the lights.

With all the problems the nation faces in the future, we can be very thankful for the events of 1989. The shift of power and change in attitude in Eastern Europe should materially assist us in focusing resources in 1990 to some of our most pressing domestic problems. We can work together to start solving them. Happy New Year.

For Book Lovers

Loretta Mansell

The Public Library. Just the sound of those three little words is as endearing to me as the other more affectionate trio. In fact, for me, to put them together, Public Library I Love You, is really redundant. If home is where the heart is, my second home is there, especially as the sun sets earlier and the wintry weather comes. Some may find their hearths in the shopping malls when the going gets tough, but I head straight for the public library.

Long ago, when I was tottering on the edge of the young adult section, I memorized this poem:

I always think the cover of a book is like a door
That always opens into someone's house where
I've not been before
A pirate or a fairy queen may lift the latch for me
I always wonder when I knock what welcome
there will be
And when I find a house that's dull I do not often stay
But when I find one full of friends I'm apt to spend the day.

How fortunate for me that now my local library is the Sierra Madre Public Library, a place that is a "house full of friends," not only in the wonderful books available there, plus records, magazines, newspapers, computers, but also in the resourceful people on staff. They are always warm, friendly, and ready to help locate the particular buried treasure you seek. Pearls of great price, all of them.

At the library in the afternoon and evening house are students doing homework or research, comfortable folks reading the daily newspapers, younger children off in their own special room learning about pirates and fairy queens, moms and dads responsibly returning books, guiding the next generation through the cornucopia, up and coming computer geniuses checking out software.

"The library," as Toni Buckner, Sierra Madre's head librarian, sees it, "is a place people need for different reasons at different times. It provides a variety of thoughts, options, and is a place of exploration, research, knowledge, and problem solving. A place for world travelers, or those preparing to be. Through technology, information is coming in various forms but we are not yet able to cuddle up with a good computer."

By Ron Hutson

Sierra Madre's "First Annual Community Christmas Tree Lighting" ceremony was an unqualified success. Several hundred residents and visitors from surrounding communities were inspired by the beautiful Christmas music performed by members of the Congregational Church choir and thrilled when the official switch was thrown turning on hundreds of white lights in Kersting Court.

Although an electrical glitch prevented the assembled crowd from viewing all the Kersting Court trees fully lit, most agree it was a wonderful beginning to what is hoped to be a new Sierra Madre holiday tradition. Many Main Street and Chamber business people have worked long hours to organize the tree lighting ceremony as well as the remainder of our holiday scheduled of events.

Special thanks go to Judy Webb-Martin for chairing the tree lighting ceremony. And a very large "thank you" for work above and beyond the call of duty goes to Sierra Madre resident Tim Connaghan. As the Associate Director of Income Development with the local unit of the American Cancer Society, Tim has invested a large number of hours attending to details and plain ole "grunt work" that has made the lighting of Kersting Court possible.

While local donations to the Sierra Madre Love Lights A Tree have passed the $3000-level, we are hopeful several thousand more dollars are in the mail or on their way to the American Cancer Society. Special gift envelopes are available in most downtown stores, at the Sierra Madre News, Chamber of Commerce and Main Street offices. A memorial gift of $25 will increase by one the band of angels on our community Christmas tree. A $5 contribution lights one bulb and contributions of any size will be appreciated.

A very special "thank you" from the Sierra Madre business community goes out to everyone who contributed to this campaign.

You can further assist the fight against cancer in the San Gabriel Valley by sending your check payable to: Sierra Madre Love Lights A Tree, American Cancer Society, P.O. Box 60687, Pasadena, CA 91016-6787.

Some Main Street capsule updates. New board members recently welcomed include Eli Steedley (Scott Aviation), Megan Edwards (headmistress, The Gooden School) and Judy Webb-Martin (Webb-Gordon Real Estate).

Our Design Review committee continues refining language proposed for addition to the city's building codes dealing with "design criteria" considered at the time of permit issuance for new signs and commerical buildings in the downtown area. This activity should not be confused with the residential Design Review Board being discussed by the city's Planning Commission.

The appearance of new commercial signs in the downtown area is a positive occurrence. However, a number of them have been put in place "without the required permit." Since this is the holiday season, a time when "gifts are given," owners of the illegal signs can expect to be receiving a gift from the city's code enforcement department. Unlike that unwanted gift we return for a refund, this gift will require the recipients to provide the cash so they can be taken off the department's gift list.

Contact Main Street c/o Ron Hutson, Project Manager, 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, CA 91024. See you on Main Street.

Citizens for Fair Gov't, Dec. 15

Citizens for Fair Government will hold their third meeting on Friday, Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Park House, Memorial Park.

An attorney conversant with basic property rights will speak on the extent to which government can legally infringe on homeowners' rights.

A question and answer session will follow the presentation.

The group is currently studying the effects of the proposed Design Review Board/Floor Area Ratio / Neighborhood Compatibility Ordinance, as well as the Hillside Ordinance zoning proposal, in regard to confiscation of property rights and violation of basic Constitutional rights.

The proposed Tree Preservation Ordinance will also come under scrutiny.

Refreshments will be served. Admission is free of charge and everyone is welcome.

Unfortunately, substance abusers abuse more than substances.
When one family member has a problem with drugs or alcohol, the entire family becomes a victim.
Sometimes through violence. More often, through neglect. And, in every case, through the lies and shame endured covering up for the addicted family member.
But there is hope.
Drug and alcohol abuse is approached as a family problem at the SHARE Unit. Treatment includes a time-proven 12-step program for your loved one as well as family counseling designed to heal the whole family. Specially trained physicians, nurses and therapists are with you throughout a healing process developed at the SHARE Unit over 15 years of working with families just like yours.
In fact, we can help you even if your loved one isn't willing to get help. Even if you just need to talk, we're here for you 24 hours a day.
It's not too late to end the abuse and begin mending your family. Don't wait.

St. Rita's Kindergarten Class from St. Rita's School learn about the letters at the Sierra Madre Public Library.

St. Rita's kids design library case

The morning kindergarten class at St. Rita's has designed a special display case to decorate the Children's Room of the Sierra Madre Public Library. The class, under the direction of Barbara Davies, is learning about the letter "B." As a class project, they all chose and cut out pictures starting with the letter "B." With the help of volunteer parents Kathy Krause and Jeana Valenzuela and children's librarian, Cathy Ryne, they made up stories to go with the pictures.

Since the word bear begins with "B," the stories revolve around the bear and his activities with items that begin with "B."

The 13 children brought their own Teddy Bears to the library to read them their stories. These original books will be on display until the end of the holidays.

OPEN HOUSE FOR SIERRA MADRE ARTIST — Igor de Kansky, Sierra Madre artist, was honored Dec. 1 at an artists' reception at Woodbury University where he showed drawings, paintings and prints from his summer trip to Provence, France. Also shown are Bill Keeney, director of graphic design at Woodbury, his wife, Marie-France, and Jacqueline Doud, acting president of Woodbury University. At the right is de Kansky. The artist will give a talk mid-December to L.A. Magnet School. He has been invited to Gordes, France for a spring art festival. De Kansky's show was dedicated to his sister, Militza.

Woman's club sponsors boutique

By Phyllis Chapman

The Sierra Madre Woman's Club will combine a Christmas boutique and music at their Christmas luncheon on Wednesday, Dec. 13 with festivities getting underway at 11 a.m. A 45-member chorus of children from the Barnhardt School in Arcadia will present "The Story of Silent Night." Under the direction of Judith Roeter, the children, ranging in age from 8 through 12, will explain through narration and singing how the carol came to be written.

This is a return visit for the chorus. They performed for the club in December, 1987, and were enjoyed so much that Program Chairman Martha Van De Verg invited them back for this meeting.

Dollie Morant, chairman, and her Wistaria Crafters, will present the Christmas boutique with items which may be purchased by the members. The Crafters also make tray favors each holiday time for the residents at the Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility and those receiving Meals on Wheels.

Guests at this Christmas meeting will be Helen Walker from the Sierra Madre Rose Float Association who will show a rendering of Sierra Madre's 1990 Rose Float entry and will then introduce the three Sierra Madre Rose Princesses Kirsten Eing, Hannah Granger and Amy Moran. Walker and the princesses will join the members for their Christmas luncheon.

LOCAL CHURCH CHOIR SINGS — Ken Walker, minister of music at Sierra Madre Congregational Church, brought one of the church choirs for the tree-lighting ceremony. The church prepares its "The Songs of Christmas" for this weekend.

UNCLE, NIECE WATCH ANGELS ON COMMUNITY TREE — Craig Delahooke and his niece, Mindy, enjoyed the brightly lighted community Christmas tree Saturday evening and attempted to count the angles. A list of all those recipients appear elsewhere in The News.

Pasadena Pops Concert

Celebrate the sounds of the season with the Pasadena Pops Orchestra, Dec. 17 at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the Pasadena Hilton International Ballroom. The program will feature some of the most outstanding and moving compositions ever written for the Christmas season.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $10 for children. All seating for this performance is theatre style, with no reserved seating.

Both performances will be conducted by founder and music director Victor Vener, and the evening concert will include seasonal classics, performed by the 70-member orchestra, as well as sing-along of wonderful Christmas favorites.

Seating for this performance is available at either round tables for $27.50 (which includes a specially selected menu), or unreserved theater-style seating for $15 or $7.50.

For ticket reservations or further information, please contact the Pasadena Pops, (818) 790-7677.

Adult singles host party Dec. 9, church

The Single Adult Fellowship of Arcadia Presbyterian Church will host a Christmas Party for singles of the Los Angeles area on Saturday, Dec. 9, in the church Fellowship Hall, 121 Alice St., Arcadia.

The evening will begin with a Wassail Hour at 6:30 p.m. At 7:30 a seasonal buffet dinner will be served, followed by a concert of Christmas music performed by members of the APC Chancel Choir.

WINTERIZE YOUR CLOTHES NOW

Every year about this time we start hearing about water repellent clothes that aren't — water repellent, that is.

There's a reason.

During wear, the minute granules of repellent slough off of the fabric and the water soaks into your clothes.

So, time to gather all your outdoor type clothes together and let us give them their treatment. Not only are they water repellent, they have a good feel and look to them. They hold their shape better, longer and they repel dust and stains. Often, a food stain can just be wiped off with a damp cloth.

This is the treatment we give your raincoat or ski clothes to keep you dry in the snow, and the same as we use in table linens to protect them.

Whatever the wardrobe problem, please feel free to call on us. We'll give them our best when you

URM plan on City Council agenda Dec. 12

A "plan" for mitigating the seismic safety hazards posed by some 52 unreinforced masonry (URM) buildings in Sierra Madre will be on the City Council agenda Tuesday, Dec. 12.

Submittal of a plan is required by the state by Jan. 1. Only two council meetings, including the Dec. 12 meeting, remain before the deadline.

The proposal would simply adopt, by reference, Division 88, Chapter IX of Article I of the Los Angeles Municipal Code, amended to limit the maximum period of compliance to three years.

It would also include compliance with the Glass and Glazing Chapter of the Uniform Building Code and require all parapets of unreinforced masonry or concrete to be rehabilitated according to regulations spelled out in this chapter.

All affected property owners have been notified of the hearing and presumably will be supplied with copies of the referenced ordinance which, to date, is only available at the City Hall or library as reference material.

The Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce had directed a letter to the council on Nov. 7, stating "Board members of both the chamber and Main Street have expressed concern and support for . . . adoption of a specific plan that addresses our situation in a timely but prudent and realistic manner."

The letter urged the use of Community Redevelopment Agency or Community Development Block Grant funds to match payments, loans or grants to the affected owners for the purpose of hiring "designated engineering consulting teams" to assess the amount of mitigation necessary.

It also urged adoption of Division 88, plus a request that the necessary structural analysis be required of owners by a deadline no later than July 1, 1990, and completion of the mitigation work itself no later than July 1, 1995. This was subsequently changed from a five- to a three-year deadline.

Tuesday morning the Chamber Board also adopted a motion in which the chamber and Main Street ask the council to make a 90-day study of

URM plan

relocating a number of URM-impacted buildings on the south side of West Sierra Madre Blvd. to the Mariposa Parking Lot as a possible solution to URM mitigation. (See article elsewhere in this edition of The News.)

A report from Building Inspector Steve Pock, dated Sept. 19, showed that of an initial 67 buildings, 14 have been removed from the URM list, since the owners have submitted supporting information of construction date or structural strength of the building.

A total of 18 property owners have returned the city's original questionnaire. These buildings will remain on the URM list until the owners submit supporting information to verify their building as being structurally reinforced.

Only three property owners have submitted structural rehabilitation plans and are currently in the city plan check system.

One building was completely demolished and has been reconstructed.

Thirty-one property owners still have not responded to the city's request for information regarding the status of their structure and will also remain on the URM list which will be submitted to the state on Jan. 1.

Aqueduct to be closed

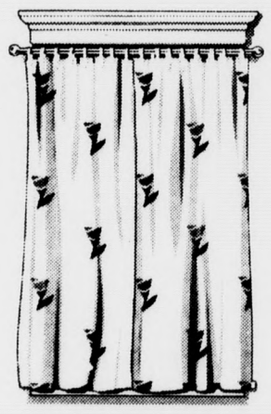

The California Aqueduct from the Tehachapi Mountains to Silverwood Lake will be closed down until Feb. 5 of next year, the California Department of Water Resources announced recently.

The aqueduct is the spine of the State Water Project. During the shutdown, sections of the aqueduct will be drained to allow several maintenance projects and improvements:

— Installation of permanent water turnout facilities for the Antelope Valley - East Kern Water Agency,
— Lining the Mojave Siphon near Silverwood Lake,
— Raising the sills on gate structures within the aqueduct,
— Installing a third pipeline at Pearblossom Pumping Plant,
— Cleaning out silt and debris along the 107 miles of aqueduct, and — Modifying the San Bernardino Tunnel from Silverwood Lake to accommodate enlargement of Devil Canyon Powerplant downstream.

All public access to the aqueduct, including fishing, will be closed off during the work, which is scheduled to be completed Feb. 5.

Some warm-up exercises to keep your winter electric bill in shape.

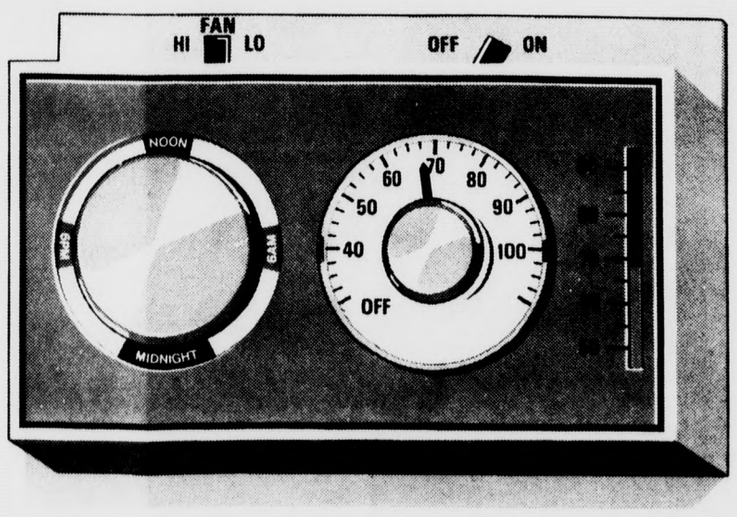

Open the drapes in the morning to let in the sun's warmth. Then keep the housewarming going by closing the drapes at night.

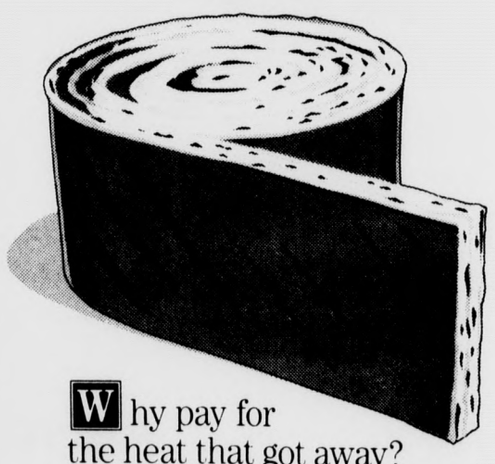

Throw on an extra blanket and rest easy knowing you're not wasting energy.

One of the best ways to save on your heating bill is to pull the wool over your eyes. No fooling.

Saving money means making a few adjustments. Like setting your thermostat at 68° during the day and 55° at night.

Why pay for the heat that got away? Install attic and duct insulation, caulk and weatherstrip, and you can save up to 40% on your heating bill.

Winter's perfect for curling up with a good book. Call Edison at 1-800-952-5062 for your free copy of Hot Tips for a Warm Winter.

IT'S A TALL TREE — Workmen note the tree's height as it ascends into the air. On Dec. 9, 16 and 23, Santa Claus will be available to kids in Kersting Court. Photos will be taken by chamber/Main Street representative at $2 each with the money going to Sierra Madre Fire Dept. and Search and Rescue Team.

TREE IN PLACE, ALMOST — Now to get the tree straight so varicolored lights and angels can be placed on the Christmas tree in Kersting Court. Children are invited to the court the next three Saturdays. Santa will arrive in a fire truck.

Champagne opening Dec. 8, S.M. Playhouse

A champagne opening is planned for Dec. 8 to usher in Sierra Madre Playhouse's holiday attraction, "Never Too Late," a good old-fashioned domestic farce by Sumner Arthur Long. This Broadway hit is about a married man in his fifties who suddenly learns he's becoming a father again. With a 24-year-old daughter who's married to a boob and his meek little wife in her surprising precious condition beginning to lay down the law, he does not cope very well with this situation. It's a show that will fracture audiences with plain and simple laughter, guaranteed to start the holiday season with a great big smile.

The cast features Joe Goddard of Altadena and Nance Crawford of Van Nuys as the middle-aged expectant couple with Barbara Paige of Glendale, Joseph Petticoffer of Pasadena, Kris Carter of North Hollywood, and Harlene Stanley of Alhambra completing the cast. Bill Martyn of Monrovia directs the fun-filled farce.

The production runs semi-continously Dec. 8-9, 13-16, 20-21 at 8 p.m. with 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. performances on Sundays, Dec. 10 and 17. Tickets are $7.50 adults, $6.50 seniors and students, $4 children 12 and under. Group sales are availabe at discount. For reservations call (818) 355-4318.

Arboretum sets open house at Queen Anne Cottage, Dec. 10

Tours of the Queen Anne Cottage, located at the Arboretum in Arcadia, will be offered during an open house on Sunday, Dec. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Docents will explain about the Baldwin family mementos and furnishings in the century-old cottage which will be decorated with holiday frills from the Victorian age.

Antique toys will decorate the fresh tree in the bedroom while the parlor and music room will house formal trees decorated with antique ornaments and Christmas cards.

A $1 fee for the cottage tour will benefit the Historical Preservation Fund at the Arboretum.

The Santa Anita Depot and coach barn will also be part of the Arboretum's Christmas celebration with docents explaining how recently-restored tools were used, and they will guide tours of the depot's baggage room which is usually not open to the public.

OPEN HOUSE AT QUEEN ANNE — Joyce Travis of Arcadia decorates the Hugo Reid Adobe at the Arboretum in preparation for the Open House at the Queen Anne Cottage. The Mexican tree of life represents the period in which the adobe was built in 1839.

Local students in PCC plays

Eight students from St. Rita's School will be participating in "A Christmas Carol" and "A Dickens Christmas" that will be performed Dec. 14, 15 and 16, 8 p.m. There will also be a 3 p.m. matinee Dec. 16.

Kids include Jessica Chiarciaro, Woody Fowler, Eddie Stanislawski, Christyann Stanislawski, Erin Swedlow, Sean Swedlow, Jennifer Dancy and Wesley Brown.

Director is James Hatch and musical director, Donald Brinegar.

The presentations are at Pasadena City College, Sexson Auditorium, 1570 E. Colorado Blvd. and the PCC Music and Theater Departments are sponsors of this fourth annual Christmas program.

Those who want tickets should call the PCC Music Department at 578-7124.

Admission is $6. Admission on Dec. 14 is free with a donation of four canned goods for the poor. Children will also be admitted free Dec. 16 with a new, unwrapped Toy for Tots.

On Sunday morning, Dec. 10 at the 8:15, 9:45 and 11:15 a.m. services, Associate Pastor John Reed has chosen "The Forgotten Gift: Choice" as the subject of his message.

Christmas brings with it thoughts about giving People are reminded that God is the giver of all things and this is epitomized through the gift of Jesus Christ and the good news of Salvation. But most folks take for granted a gift that makes all the other gifts of God a possibility. Pastor Reed will be focusing on the gift of "choice." Because mankind can make choices, this enables him to be the recipient of God's higher gifts. How do we use our great freedom to choose? Or perhaps we have relegated this gift to the back closet of our lives so we can make room for the easier process of conformity. The dynamics of "choice" with its twin of responsibility is the "Forgotten Gift."

Join us this Christmas and travel around the world without leaving home. On Saturday, Dec. 9 at 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., and on Sunday, Dec. 10 at 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m the many talented folks at S.M.C.C. will present "Song of Christmas — Carols of the Nations." A very special occasion you will not want to miss.

Donations are $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Tickets are available at S.M.C.C., 170 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. For ticket information, call (818) 355-3566.

St. Rita's

For the last three weeks the children at St. Rita's School have been busy collecting food, clothing, toys and money for hungry, homeless children.

They collected a total of $1757.28. They amassed more than 2500 cans of food and 365 bags of clothing. On "Macaroni Monday" students brought in over 350 boxes of macaroni and cheese, (a favorite with homeless children). On "Teddy Bear Tuesday" over 550 stuffed animals were collected. These soft animals are a great comfort to the homeless children. The sixth grade students coordinated the drive, and also went shopping for new Christmas toys. Thirteen hundred children will receive perhaps their only gift for Christmas from the Holy Cross Center, where are the donations were taken.

On the final day the food, clothing and other items collected — stretched out end to end — covered 300 yards or the length of three football fields.

Feast of the Immaculate Conception

This special feast day of the Mother of Jesus Christ will be celebrated with a vigil mass on Thursday, Dec. 7 at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 8 with masses at 7:30 a.m., 9 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The Solemnity of the Immaculate Conception celebrates the integrity of Mary's life. It also calls each of us to a life of personal integrity. To have integrity means to live as a real believer whose actions and words work together.

Gloria Dei

The sermon theme for next Sunday at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church on 186 W. Highland of Sierra Madre is: "The Word was made flesh." It is based on John 1:6-14. Sunday School and a Christmas social follow. Mid-week Advent Services at 7:30 p.m. are on Dec. 6, 13, and 20. We invite you to be our guests.

Whatever happened to the Christmas spirit?

You won't find it in stores full of shoppers. You won't find it in the writing, addressing, stamping and mailing of the cards you send because you "got one from them last year." You won't find it in homes where paychecks are being mortgaged for months to come to splurge on Christmas gifts. You won't find it in Christmas parties where Christian conduct is missing.

Would you like to find it . . . the real spirit of Christmas? Would you like to have it mean what it ought to mean? Then look in church. During these days of Advent really get ready for a joyful blessed Christmas. The true Christmas spirit can be found in church, not just on Dec. 25, but every Sunday and day of worship before and after.

Bethany

By Al Elby

Eighteen days and counting, time is slipping by faster than we would like because there is yet much to do. Establishing a gift list is a chore. Who do we give to this year and will the list be shorter or longer that last year. Trying to think of appropriate gifts and then attempting to reconcile them with one's budget takes talent. Do we blow the bank roll and then live on frijoles for the next couple months? Or do we follow the dictates of logic and cut back on the magnitude of the gifts so that January will not be a fiscal trauma?

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we didn't have to face these decisions. Well, as important as these decisions are there is one and only one decision that you will have to make that will affect you and eternity. That choice, as we have so often asked in these articles, is "What is your relationship to Jesus Christ?" We ask and ask because every other decision pales in comparison.

At Bethany you can hear a resounding "amen" to this question. But more than that in our concern that everyone in Sierra Mare and its environs would join us in this "amen." That would warm the very cockles of God's heart.

Obituaries

Daniel H. Daniels

Funeral services were scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 6 for Daniel H. Daniels, 82, who died Dec. 2 at Methodist Hospital. Services were at 2 p.m. at Live Oak Memorial Park and Rev. Clyde Annandale, pastor of Bethany Church, Sierra Madre, officiated.

Mr. Daniels was formerly a postmaster in Sierra Madre.

He was born in North Braddock, Pa. and had lived in California for 40 years.

Survivors include his wife, Grace M. Daniels; a daughter, Elizabeth Emmons of Sierra Madre and a son, Richard Daniels of Dothan, Ala. Sisters are Mildred McBride of Conneaut, Pa. and Mary Hogg of Baltimore, Md. Also surviving are grandchildren Richard Gregory Daniels and Michelle Suzanne Daniels.

Douglass & Zook Mortuary were in charge of services.

United Methodist

"With God It Is Possible" will be the sermon by Rev. Rich LaShure in the worship service at Sierra Madre United Methodist Church this Sunday at 9:30 a.m. The scripture will be the famous Magnifcat of Mary the mother of Jesus, Luke 1:39-55.

Based on the song of Hannah in the Old Testament book of Samuel, the Magnificat is a bright, bold declaration of faith in the power of God to move mountains of injustice.

A new hymn from the United Methodist Hymnal, "Tell Out My Soul" will be sung. This is a musical interpretation of the Magnificat.

The Aldersgate Choir will perform the Vivaldi "Gloria" in the morning service on Sunday, Dec. 17. The choir is directed by Marguerite Hougasian, who is also a teacher at John Muir High School in Pasadena.

Traditional Peruvian music will be performed by Guillermo Bordarampe's group Inca and a video tape of The Hispanic Chrismas traditions of New Mexico will be shown in the Norman F. Sprague Gallery. The video depicts a revival of Los Pastores, a folk morality play in which shepherds seek to pay homage to the Baby Jesus and are tempted by the devil throughout the journey. Admission to the Museum will also be free to all visitors. Refreshments are available.

Writing students sought for kids in high school

The Vision Times, a newspaper dedicated to publishing articles by and about high school and junior high school youth, invites students throughout L.A. to submit articles, cartoons, short stories, poetry and opinion columns for its upcoming Winter issue.

The Vision Times is affiliated with the Communications Studies Department at California State University, Los Angeles. Written by participants in Career Beginnings, a program for high school youth in South Central and East Los Angeles, the newspaper not only strengthens students' writing skills, but also boosts their self-esteem and confidence.

Parents, friends, teachers, administrators and counselors are asked to encourage high school and junior school students to send in their contributions today. The deadline for the next issue is Jan. 12, 1990. Send typed or neatly printed contributions to Amanda Kemp, University Times, CSLA, 5151 State University Dr., Los Angeles, CA 90032-8892.

For additional information contact Vision Times coordinators Amanda Kemp and Brian Fernandez at (213) 343-4215.

Christmas party Dec. 16, singles

The San Gabriel Valley Tall Singles announces its Christmas house party on Saturday, Dec. 16 at 8:30 p.m. to provide an activity for single men over six feet tall and women over five feet eight inches tall who are also past 25 years of age.

"Food, fun, and dancing are planned as well as socializing," according to a spokesperson. The dress will be holiday dressy.

A donation of $6 is required. The event will be held at 379 Spinks Canyon Rd. in Duarte. For more information please call (818) 359-8444. Reservations are not needed.

Free public service screenings

As a public service free scolioisis screenings for children and adolescents age 10-19 will be available from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Dec. 11 - 15 courtesy of Davidson Chiropractic, 698 W. Foothill Blvd., Monrovia. The screening includes analysis of posture and spinal motion.

For appointment and information call (818) 357-2580.

Palm tree grows at top

The palm tree grows only at one place — its very top. The trunk, once established, does not add girth as other trees do.

Students present auto designs, Dec. 8

A group of 29 advanced transportation and design students at Art Center College of Design will present three dimensional models of a small, sporty car for the year 2000 to directors of Mitsubishi Motors from Japan, design executives at Mitsubishi Motors America, Inc. and to Art Center instructors on Dec. 8.

The presentation is the culmination of a 13-week project sponsored by Mitsubishi, in which students were asked to envision what sport cars in the future will look like. Mitsubishi designers placed particular emphasis on the recently introduced Mitsubishi Eclipse, which served as the genesis for the students' designs. Students were given certain design, styling and technological requirements to provide Mitsubishi with a glimpse of what the Eclipse may look like in two or three generations.

Students spent approximately nine weeks developing ideation sketches of their designs. Mitsubishi representatives and Art Center instructors critiqued the illustrations, and students then used this input to create their models.

Presentations will take place throughout the day on Dec. 8 from 9:30 a.m. until approximately 5 p.m.

TubaChristmas

The 1989 TubaChristmas concert and singalong will be held at the Music Center on the Grand Staircase of the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 12. It will precede the annual Glendale Symphony Christmas concert in the Pavilion.

TubaChristmas will feature over 200 tuba players from all over Southern California. Special guest conductor will be the Glendale Symphony music director and conductor, Lalo Schifrin.

There is free parking for participants at Department of Water and Power lot, Entrance Gate No. 6 on Hope Street across from the Music Center. Registration and rehearsal will begin at 4:30 p.m., 4th floor rehearsal room 3 in the Pavilion, artist entrance at 135 N. Grand Ave. The concert is free to the public.

For further information contact Glendale Symphony office at (818) 500-8720.

'A Christmas Carol'

"A Christmas Carol," a spectacular fully-staged musical adaptation of Charles Dickens' holiday tale, comes to the Bridges Auditorium stage Wednesday, Dec. 13 at 8 pm.

Bridges Auditorium, of The Claremont Colleges Center for the Performing Arts, is located at Fourth Street and College Way in Claremont.

KC'S CLOSET WINS SECOND PLACE — KC's Closet won a second place in the window decorating contest last week. Shown is a window full of antiques representing an old-fashioned Christmas. Designer of the window is Karen Corazzelli, co-owner of the store with her parents, Tess and Vito Corazzelli.

JUDGES DELIBERATE — Tess Corazzelli, Jacki Raymond and Valerie Berges discuss their findings concerning Christmas windows in downtown Sierra Madre. Corazzelli was chairman of the committee but she did not vote. Also on the committee was Judy Webb-Martin, not shown.

SPINNING WHEEL COMES IN THIRD — Helen Elliott, owner of The Spinning Wheel is shown here outside her third place window featuring a plethora of Christmas items, most of them handmade.

BEAUTIFICATION HAS SUCCESSFUL BOUTIQUE — Sierra Madre Beautification Committee hosted a Christmas boutique Friday and Saturday and came out $1700 ahead. Shown waiting on people are Jan Maddox (seated), Shelby Pope and Barbara Godley. In the rear are Judy Webb-Martin and Shirley McGillicuddy, the latter who is president of the group. Shopping for Christmas at the left is Martha Griffin, wife of the former mayor.

Celeste McCreary

Celeste is also an active member of PEO, a philanthropic organization dedicated to working with and assisting women throughout their stages of life and need. She is also now managing the Daisy Shop which is staffed by volunteers and raises funds to be used in facility maintenance of the PEO Retirement Home in Alhambra.

The new Citizen of the Year is also an active member of the Pricillas, another philanthropic organization of Sierra Madre women.

She was 1937 Tournament of Roses Princess.

She came to live in Sierra Madre in 1938, attended Sierra Madre Grammar School and raised her family here.

The nominations described her as working "over and beyond enumeration (of her activities), she has always been very well-liked and has offered her time and effort in an exemplary fashion, with grace, charm and commitment to a job well done."

Another person to nominate Celeste McCreary as "Citizen" said, "She is always the first one to volunteer her time, and (most important) she always gets things done as promised."

Still another described her as "an outstanding lady (who) has performed great service to Sierra Madre in many categories."

She is known for her singing ability and has performed throughout the years for many functions.

Celeste will be Citizen of the Year, following Harry Martin, until next year's nominee is chosen.

Work continues on Rose Float

Work is progressing rapidly on Sierra Madre's entry in the 1990 Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena on Jan. 1, New Year's Day. Basic construction is almost completed with the hydraulics sections. Additional help is needed in general construction and the molding of figures with chicken-wire over a base. On the third weekend in December help will be needed with painting and "dry-flowering" certain sections of the float. Fresh flowers will be placed on the float starting Dec. 27, continuing until New Year's Eve when the float is transported to Pasadena. Persons wanting to help on the float are urged to call the Float Building at 355-7005 or to drop by on weekends to assist on the completion.

Messiah Sing-Along Dec. 11, San Gabriel

Everyone is urged to join the chorus when the San Gabriel Valley Civic Light Opera presents the Second Annual Messiah Sing-Along on Monday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium.

The evening will feature the sounds of the Civic Light Opera Orchestra under the direction of M. Roger Lockie. The true stars of the evening will be the audience, who will participate by singing along to selected choruses and solos from Handel's beloved Messiah.

As an added treat, the Biola University Handbell Choir, under the direction of Donovan Gray, will perform favorite holiday tunes as the audience arrives.

Participants who have a "Messiah" score are encouraged to bring it along; however, scores will also be available for purchase.

Ticket donation is $10 per person. All seats are unreserved. Tickets are available at the Civic Auditorium box office, located at 320 S. Mission Dr., San Gabriel, or call (818) 308-2868.

Hastings Ranch Lighting Dec. 10

Christmas comes to Upper Hastings Ranch on Sunday evening, Dec. 10 when the 34th Annual Light-Up of Upper Hastings homes and parkway officially begins. The light-up ends Sunday, Dec. 31.

The 1100 homes in the 44 blocks of Upper Hastings Ranch will attract visitors from all over Southern California, according to Wes Guarino, president of Upper Hastings Ranch Association. Large red bell cut-outs will conspicuously mark the winning homes and parkways. The Mayor's Trophy and Judges' Trophy are the highlights of the festivities. Awards will also be given for homes with best use of lights, best humor/fantasy, best religious, and best parkway. Snoopy awards are for children.

Judges are: Pat Nolan, Assemblyman, 41st district; Cynthia Kurtz, capital program administrator for the city of Pasadena; Donna Watkins, Hastings Ranch librarian; Sgt. James Shear, Pasadena Police Department; and Curt Gibson, Junior High minister of Pasadena first Church of the Nazarene.

Upper Hastings Ranch is bordered by Sierra Madre Blvd. on the south, Eaton Canyon Golf Course (Riviera Dr.) on the west, the mountains on the north, and Michillinda Ave. on the east. Main arteries into the Ranch are Riviera Dr., Hastings Ranch Dr. and Michillinda Ave.

More details can be obtained from Wade Wright, Ranch Light-Up chairman, (818) 351-0628, Wes Guarino, (818) 352-0042, and Creath B. Smiley, (818) 351-0125.

GTE begins emergency service for public Dec. 8

Starting Dec. 8, GTE California officially begins its Emergency Alert Service, a service that formalizes the company's long-standing practice of reporting emergencies that employees observe while driving on company business.

To help the public know that help is nearby, GTE will place Emergency Alert Service logos on all its vehicles equipped with two-way radios. "When someone sees at GTE vehicle with the Emergency Alert Service logo on it," explained Chuck Beckwith, GTE district manager, "He or she can be sure that the GTE employee will immediately report the emergency.

"What the Emergency Alert Service adds," Beckwith continued, "is public awareness. People need only look at the GTE vehicle to see if it's two-way radio equipped."

Murphy proposes

This URM problem, — you might call it a blessing in disguise. It could be the coordination of total development."

May noted that a plan much like Murphy's had been outlined years ago and "at that time you'd have thought we were crazy but things have changed now. We need to look at it to see if it's a feasible thing."

Horst Engel of VIP Travel said, "All we're looking for is two months for study to give all players a chance . . . It makes sense to me, to try to get as much study and information together."

Helen Elliott of The Spinning Wheel said, "We'll all be forced to comply (with URM). Wouldn't it be far better to study and put together a plan that would affect the whole area?"

Judy Webb-Martin noted that their real estate company has no access to Mariposa. "We would like to join. Let's at least look at it."

When Valencia spoke of "planters in the meridian" earlier, he was referring to the decision by Main Street and the Chamber of Commerce to go along with the demonstration project of placing 20 cement planter containers down the center of Sierra Madre Blvd. from Hermosa to the corner of Kersting Court. These planters, placed in that area for a 90-day trial basis, would possibly deter the excessive speed and deteriorating pedestrian safety as well as stop illegal U-turns.

Although several members of both groups were not in favor of the project, Main Street and the Chamber of Commerce requested the Sierra Madre CRA to allocate up to $5000 from CRA infrastructure funds for that purpose.

As part of the meridian project, Police Chief Bill Betts has suggested painting 45-degree angle striping within the crosswalk areas.

The chief has discussed the planter proposal with the Main Street staff. While Betts shares the concerns expressed by some others, he has not registered opposition to the plan. He strongly supports a 90-day review time frame for the proposal.

At this point implementation depends upon when the container/planter company confirms delivery.

Flam presents variety show

Ruth Renne Flam will offer a variety show at CLIMB and at the Sierra Madre SNF unit this month.

On Sunday, Dec. 10, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. she will be at CLIMB.

On Monday, Dec. 18, at 1 p.m. she will present her variety show at the SNF unit.

Hillside Coalition appeals decision by Oliver Dablo

The long, drawn-out Lawson Martin application for a hillside lot split off Chantry Flat Road will be back for a ninth round before the City Council during a 19-month interim.

Eric Martens, attorney for the Hillside Coalition, has filed an appeal from the decision rendered by Public Works Director Oliver Dablo on Oct. 30.

The matter had been referred from the City Council decision on Sept. 12 for Dablo's "final" decision which a surprise announcement previously had revealed was "required by the Sierra Madre City Code," thus rendering the council's decisions as advisory only.

City Attorney Charles Martin has stated that he "does not believe a staff decision should approve parcel maps with only the right of appeal to the respective agencies (i.e. Planning Commission and City Council)."

Nevertheless, he agreed that the code currently requires this.

Dablo's "conditional" decision was dated Oct. 30, and was subsequently circulated to City Administrator Jim McRea for his "input and approval" and the Lawson Martins for their approval, as well as the Coalition.

The Coalition's attorney objected to the fact that all of the suggestions submitted on behalf of the Coalition were rejected, and the approval, dated Oct. 30, was actually posted on Nov. 16.

The appeal was filed on the following basis:

A. "The Approval imposes an improper condition, i.e., that the operation of the gate on the North Santa Anita Drive be changed from the present manual operation to an electronic operation, without finding of fact as to the impact such a change would have on the public safety of the citizens of the city of Sierra Madre;

B. "The approval fails to accurately reflect the recommendations of the City Council at its meeting held on Sept. 12;

C. "The approval fails to require the legend or endorsement on the map which would implement and give notice of the Declaration of Deed Restriction and Covenant Running with Land, a draft of which was enclosed with (the attorney's) letter of Nov. 14, which is the essence of an agreement between the Coalition and the Martins."

This last refers to the agreement by Mark Steres, attorney for the Martins, on behalf of his clients to the signing of a covenant specifying that no further applications would be made for further subdivisions of the land. The City Council's proposal to include this land in a broad R-1-15,000 square foot hillside zoning band has rendered the question crucial, in the opinion of the Coalition. The covenant has not yet been signed.

The appeal also included the following:

"In addition, it is possible that one or more of the following conditions may exist, which if proven true, would constitute additional grounds for appeal:

D. "Failure of the city by and through the city administrator to abide by the municipal code . . . which reposes the sole and exclusive authority to initially approve or disapprove a parcel map with the director of public works, not with the city administrator. Moreover, the code does not authorize the director of public works to circulate 'drafts' of decisions to the city administrator and the applicant (Martins) for their 'input and approval.'

E. "Impermissable influence and interference by the city administrator in the approval process which is given by the code solely and exclusively to the director of public works."

With the submittal of the appeal, the matter will now continue — through how many more rounds, nobody seems to know at this point. — J.M.

Congregational Church presents 'Song of Christmas'

Sierra Madre Congregational Church will present their fifth annual Song of Christmas even on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 9 and 10, at 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

This year's theme is "Carols of the Nations," an international celebration of Christmas.

Tickets can be obtained from Kathy Benton in the S.M.C.C office at 355-3566 for a donation of $5 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under. In years past, these holiday performances have drawn sell-out crowds, but if any tickets are still remaining, they will be made available at the door.

The concert portion of this year's event features many familiar and some not so familiar carols from around the world, as performed by the Cherub Choir and Kings Kids children's choirs, the Mastersong adult ensemble, the Chancel Choir and full orchestra, under the direction of Ken Walker.

Senior Pastor Dick Anderson will bring the narratives that express the joy and wonder of the Christmas season.

Following each performance, the choirs will lead the audience out of the church sanctuary and along a candlelit sidewalk to Pritchard Hall, where they will be served a holiday desert.

Hillside Coalition emerges after study

Both the Preservation and the No Growth Movements have taken Sierra Madre by storm in the last couple of years.

Well-organized groups have formed to lobby for their views.

Those who dare to disagree seem to be well outnumbered and have resorted, more and more, to threats of litigation, appearing at council meetings flanked by articulate and high-powered attorneys who claim their clients' basic property rights are being "prejudiced" by the preservationists.

The preservationists, in turn, flex political muscle, reminding council members that elections are coming up in less than six months.

The News, in a series of articles on the controversies created by the movement, covered the first of the activist groups to be formed — the Homeowners/Residents Association — in a previous article.

Another dedicated group is the Hillside Coalition, officially only about four months old, but already the fastest growing, with "members" numbering some 150 residents.

According to Verna Chilton and Caroline Brown, who call themselves the "foot soldiers" of the group, there are no officers, no formal meetings, no by-laws and no members, as such.

"We are a lobbying group — an information network," says Chilton. "We count as 'members' those who have contributed money, time and/or effort to our cause."

Their cause is the protection and preservation of the hillsides.

Their roots go back to the Chantry Flat Gate battle when 1500 residents joined to petition for the protective gate.

Then the Lawson Martin development on the Chantry Flat Road coalesced those living below the site to protest the proposal.

Others joined them and the cause itself broadened to encompass all of the undeveloped hillside areas in the city.

They strongly back the Planning Commission's proposed restrictive Hillside Ordinance, which opponents claim comes close to confiscating the property in its one house per five-, 10-, 20-, and 40-acre zoning.

They just as strongly oppose the City Council's counter-proposal, which leaves a large portion of the area at R-1-15, or close to three houses per acre.

They also endorse the establishment of a Sierra Madre Mountain Conservancy, with the goal of preserving as much of the hillsides as possible in a totally pristine state, in perpetuity.

The Lawson Martin development is by no means settled, they feel, and they are concerned because the Martins have not yet signed a covenant agreeing not to split the site further. It is included in the broad R-1-15 band proposed by the council.

A number of the coalition's leaders also belong to the Homeowners/Residents Association and endorse their stands as well.

The Homeowners, in turn, co-sponsored a garage sale on Nov. 4, which raised $700 to help with legal fees incurred by the Coalition in fighting the Martins' original 4-lot proposal and continuing to the present, with the covenant still hanging in the balance.

Chilton and Brown have conducted exhaustive research on aspects of hillside characteristics, contacting county and state authorities on planning and various regulatory codes, geological, environmental, seismic, flood and other hazards which might be encountered in development. They even procured the state's General Plan, CEQA and other zoning and regulatory material.

"We don't want to act without background information," Chilton stated.

She noted that she had called the state head of Mines & Geology in Sacramento, who said we must be careful in this area in view of the hazard posed by landslides as a secondary effect of earthquakes.

As a member of the Conservancy Committee, Brown stated that she was hopeful one could be established. She noted that it could be very expensive and that the people of Sierra Madre will ultimately have to decide if it is worth it.

She said the committee would probably target the highest land (presumably the topmost quarter sections) farthest away from urban development.

Gurdon Miller, a senior city planner for the city of Los Angeles, said he supports the Coalition's efforts because it has brought a focus on hillside preservation and has acted in a responsible manner.

Julie Rosenthal stated that she and her husband support it because they care about the mountains and live in Sierra Madre. "We live directly underneath the Martin development. Any mistakes would end up in our back yard. We have to stay on top of things," she said.

Joy Phillips sees the need for the Coalition because of its positive approach to a common goal. She feels the city fathers are going to tread more gingerly after the recent Northern California earthquake.

Steven Broyless, an environmental attorney, supports the concept of a conservancy. "We should make an effort to acquire some areas," he said. He feels strongly about preserving hillside oaks and believes multi-story houses are not appropriate in the hillsides.

George and Gerda Enyedi stated that the Coalition's goals include, "being a watchdog, staying abreast and alerting interested citizens of City Council activities dealing with our hillsides . . ."

Chilton and Brown, the "foot soldiers" continue to send out flyers, marshall phoners and runners, study weighty tomes on the subject, confer with authorities in the field and present dissertations to the council on their findings.

Activists in action — a force to be reckoned with.

Astronomy lab at Huntington

An exhibit of early scientific books and manuscripts from the library of the Mount Wilson Observatory is currently on display at the Huntington Library, Art Collections and Botanical Gardens in San Marino.

The exhibit represents a major addition to the Huntington's collection in the field of early astronomy. Approximately 1500 rare books, early scientific journals and papers from the Mount Wilson Observatory have been placed on permanent deposit at the Huntington, where they will be cataloged, given conservation treatment and made available to qualified scholars. The transfer of these materials to the Huntington was made possible by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C.

The exhibit, in the West Foyer of the Huntington Library Exhibition Hall, continues through the end of January, 1990.

Gerke to present program at library

"An evening with Gertrude Gerke and Her Marionettes" will be held at the Sierra Madre Public Library on Friday, Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free and all are welcome.

Long-time Sierra Madre resident Gertrude Gerke will share one of her most interesting hobbies. She will talk about the fascinating history of marionettes as well as how they are made and worked. Mrs. Gerke will also share her hand-made collection dating back to the 1930s.

The Sierra Madre Public Library is located at 440 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre.

ESCROW QUARTET — Teri Peinado (seated), office manager at A-One Escrow, is surrounded by fellow escrow specialists: Jennifer Herb, Deanna Estrada and Diane Henderson. Sierra Madre News Photo

A-One Escrow Inc. moves to expanded Arcadia office

A-One Escrow Inc., which moved to Arcadia in mid-1988 from its original homebase in Upland, opened its expanded offices at 400 N. Santa Anita Ave. in October.

Teri Peinado, who has been in the escrow business for 17 years, is manager of the escrow office. A San Marino native, she has been affiliated with several offices in the San Gabriel Valley, doing freelance work while making her home in Arcadia and raising her three children: Diane, now a senior at Cal State Long Beach; Michael, a Pasadena City College sophomore; and Aimee, a sophomore at Arcadia High School.

Assisting Peinado are three escrow officers: Jennifer Herbig; Deanna Estrada who specializes in refinance; and Diane Henderson, a closing officer.

This quartet works with lenders and investors from all over Southern California, making sure that everything is done in a timely manner, explains Peinado.

She goes on to say that in the escrow business, they deal with everyone involved with a sale: real estate agents, buyers, sellers, lenders and insurance representatives. She adds, "Escrow is the third party."

Each transaction is unique, according to Peinado, who explains that all-cash transactions would be a dream. "But that seldoms happens."

She also says that many people are refinancing rather than buying and that the market is not as predictable as in the past. She expects to see "for sal" signs staying up a little longer than a few months ago.

Real estate sales are a little slower this time of the year, adds Peinado, but it is more hectic because people are anxious to close escrow before the holidays.

Career change brings Jeff Yamaguchi, Marriott's Residence Inn to Arcadia

He wanted to "be like Quincy," the medical examiner on the television series of the same name, but when Jeff Yamaguchi graduated with a degree in biochemistry from Occidental College, he was offered a management position with a Los Angeles hotel.

He had worked in a hotel while going to college, and the post-graduation offer seemed economically sound, explains Yamaguchi, who joined up with Marriott in 1988 and opened the Arcadia Residence Inn, Marriott's all-suite hotel, in January of this year.

The Residence Inn concept is a community of townhouse-style suites designed to meet the needs of travelers looking for a full range of conveniences, especially for those staying more than a few days. It's ideal for families or for people who are relocating in the area, explains Yamaguchi.

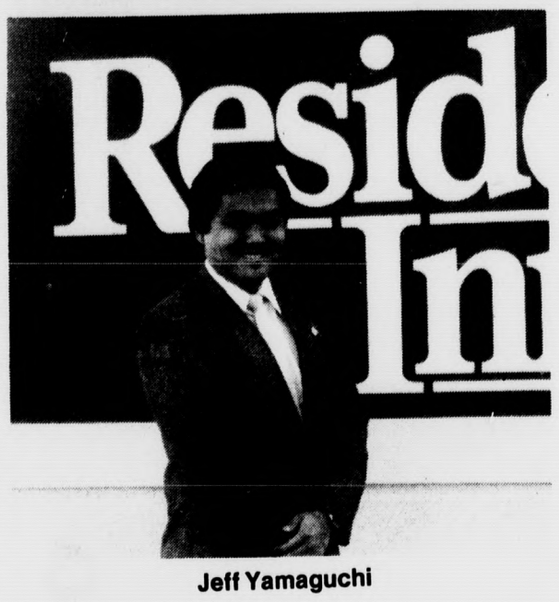

Residence Inn accommodations are available in two floor plans, studio suites and two-story penthouse suites. Both offer fully-equipped kitchens, free grocery shopping service, complimentary newspaper, valet laundry and doorstep parking.

A swimming pool with heated spa and a fitness court for racket sports, volleyball and basketball are also offered as well as continental breakfast, community barbecues and evening hospitality hours.

Currently, there are 148 Residence Inns in locations all over the United States.

Yamaguchi, who has been appointed to the board of directors of both the Chamber of Commerce and the Tournament of Roses Association since coming to Arcadia, says he enjoys the change his career has taken because he enjoys the challenges, the hour-by-hour change in the hotel management business.

He also finds it gratifying to help the young people working for him. "That's where I was when I was going to school."

Royal visits, holiday spirit, giving prevail at council meet

Royal visits and the holiday spirit were on the agenda when the Arcadia Community Coordinating Council met on Monday.

Joanne Ward and Marisa Stephenson, Arcadians who are on the Pasadena Rose Court, as well as Queen Jenny Chen and Princesses Elyse Douglas, Kathleen Lechler, Tricia Stonecipher and Jennifer Worsley of the Arcadia Royal Court were introduced and each girl told a little about herself and her excitement of being on the court.

Princess Jennifer also sang with the Arcadia High Chanteurs who entertained with a collection of holiday songs. Michelle Williams sang a solo of "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas"; Candice Payne sang "A Christmas Song"; and Christine Evans and Todd Wilander offered their version of "Here We Come A-Caroling."

At the conclusion of the performance, Princess Jennifer sang "Happy Birthday," to Steve Sanderson, who represents the Arcadia Red Cross and the local Kiwanis Club at the Coordinating Council.

Sanderson also presentd a check for $200 from the Kiwanis Club to be used for the White Christmas project of the Arcadia Thrift and Welfare Shop. Other gifts were received from Jean Cope, who presented a check for $950 from Arcadianns, and from Lois Bulen, who offered a donation from the United Methodist Women.

COMMEMORATING 75 YEARS — Mary Young, Arcadia mayor pro-tem, presents a plaque in celebration of the Arcadia Presbyterian Church's 75th anniversary to Dr. Alvin Desterhaft, pastor of the church which is the oldest in Arcadia. The church, which was originally located at the northeast corner of Huntington Dr. and Santa Anita, has been celebrating its 75 years in Arcadia with numerous functions during the year.

Rodney Houts

R. Houts named Foundation head

Rodney Houts has been named executive vice president of the Methodist Foundation, replacing Bill Seelye who resigned in August to take a position with the Greenwood Company, a fundraising organization based in the San Francisco area.

Houts comes to the local medical foundation from Woodland Hills where he was president of the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Association, a voluntary health agency devoted to ALS, more often called "Lou Gehrig's disease."

Previously he served as executive director of the foundations at both St. Joseph Medical Center in Burbank and Daniel Freeman in Inglewood.

He founded a development consulting firm in the early '70s and dissolved the business after six years because of the extensive travel required to service a clientele scattered throughout the United States.

Houts was also director of development at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. where he was responsible for the college's philanthropic support.

He holds a degree in literature from Azusa Pacific University and a degree in public relations and journalism from California State University, San Jose. He also has done graduate level work in public relations and communications at Boston University.

Holly student makes TV debut, parents charge discrimination

Christopher Yip, a Holly Avenue Elementary School student, appeared on an evening television newscast last week because his parents have charged the Arcadia Unified School District with discrimination.

Yip, whose father is of Korean ancestry and whose mother is black, was identified by his first grade teacher as a student who would be well-suited to handle a first/second grade class when it became necessary to add the combination class because of increased enrollment.

After he was moved from the first grade class to the combination, the teacher determined that the young boy was not able to handle the new situation and had him reassigned to the straight first grade, according to a school district spokesman.

The parents claim the child has been demoted when the school district indicates that there is no documentation that he was in the second grade and, in fact, as a student in the combination class, he would be doing only the first grade work. According to the Channel 7 newscaster, the parents have said that their child is "intellectually and socially fit to work in the second grade."

While the parents have accused the teacher in the combination class as being prejudiced and insensitive to multicultural children, interim Superintendent Russ Ribb says that reports he has received indicate that the teacher is an outstanding educator and that inaccurate characterizations have been made of her.

Sinclair slide wins; McMullen installed

Gil Sinclair's slide of a Scottish castle "Eileen Donan" was recognized as slide-of-the-year by the Arcadia Color Sliders.

Honorable mention runners-up were "Snow on the Church" by Bruce Skillern; "Autumn at Bishop" by Lois Sharkey; and "Natural Terrace" by Elise Baggio.

Category winners were LeRoy Petersen for the best flower slide, "Spring Iris"; Barbara Johnston for the best travel slide, "Santa Barbara Mission"; Catherine Choin for the best nature slide, "Watchful Coyote"? Skillern for the best contemporary slide, "Double Image"; and Boggio for the best scenic, "Blue and Gold."

Awards were presented at the annual installation banquet when Robert McMullen became president; Grady Perigan, vice president; David Kalinger, treasurer; and Helen Perigan, secretary.

Editors and circulation managers of the club's monthly newsletter will be Ila and LeRoy Petersen.

The Color Sliders, whose purpose is learning about, sharing and enjoying the hobby of making 33 mm color slides, meet at the Arcadia Red Cross building every third and fourth Monday except in December.

Winter classes offered for all ages by Rec. Dept.

The Arcadia Recreation Department will offer a variety of classes for all ages this winter. Most classes begin in mid-January.

Registration will be processed in the order received, according to a recreation department spokesman, who reports that mail-in registration is preferred but walk-in forms will be accepted in the recreation office at the Arcadia City Hall.

Classes for children will include art, ballet and tap, baton, creative dance, guitar, ju-jutsu, nature, swim team, tennis and tumbling.

Backpacking, badminton, calligraphy, Chinese knotted jewelry, guitar, ju-jutsu, swim team, tennis and volleyball are offered for teenagers.

In addition to most of those offered for teenagers, there will be adult classes in aerobics, guitar, ladies dance exercise, quilting, tap dance for fitness and square dancing.

Program brochures which list detailed class information, as well as registration forms are available at the Recreation Department Office, 240 W. Huntinton Dr., Arcadia. Phone 574-5432 for more information.

Hsu, four AHS scholars win medals at Decathlon

Norbert Hsu was Arcadia High School's top scoring students in the Los Angeles County Academic Decathlon held last month at Pasadena High School. At a dessert social and awards ceremony held last week at the PHS auditorium, Hsu and four other Arcadia students received a total of nine medals as the team placed ninth overall among the 68 schools in competition and third when judged against over 20 schools in the northern region.

Christine Lee, competing in the scholastic division, won three medal awards: third place in speech, first in interview, and third in language/literature. Also in the scholastic category, Arunabh Lath placed second in math.

In the honors division, Enrique Colayco placed third in both speech and essay while Hsu came in third in the interview competition and Ben Shih took third place honors in math.

Eugene Oh won the second place award for science in the varsity category.

Last year the Arcadia team came in fourth overall and first in the northern region. Counselor and decathlon coordinator, Luci Berger, indicated that the competition is more intense than in the past and that more students are competing for medals.

She said that the kids were very happy with the results and were thrilled to place in the top 10. "I think they should have won a spirit award," Berger commented, adding that the event was a positive experience for the students, many of whom have not competed in athletics and have not had the team competition experience.

First Avenue nominated as Distinguised School

First Avenue Junior High school has been nominated as a 1990 California Distinguished School by the State Department of Education.

Selection was based upon the performance of the students on their 1989 California Assessment Program test scores and the school's success in achieving its Quality Indicator targets in the Performance Report for California Schools.

Foothills Junior High School and Hugo Reid Elementary School have been identified as Distinguished Schools in the past.

'SHOWER' FOR HILLSIDES — Gathering together "shower" gifts for Hillsides are Mary Marcucci, community relations chairman for the Arcadia Republican Women's Club; Mary E. Hansen, ARWC president; and Susan Galvin, social worker at Hillsides Home for Children.

'Baby shower' results in Hillsides donations

A mock "baby shower" was held recently by the members of the Arcadia Republican Women's Club who contributed such things as toys, books, puzzles, cassettes, videos and games which were donated to Hillsides Home for Children in Pasadena.

Hillsides is the community outreach project for ARWC, and the shower gifts helped stock Hillside's new infant toddler unit which was created to help abused and/or drug dependent babies.

This month's ARWC meeting will be on Thursday, Dec. 14 at the Velvet Turtle. Program chairman Whilma Holcome has planned a surprise program as well as the installation of new officers.

Phyllis Reed and Dolly Blair will entertain the group with Christmas music which will include a sing-along.

Reed, a local resident and member of ARWC, is a vocalist, pianist and former choral teacher at [illegible]erno High School. She toured the United States and Japan with the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Blair of Los Angeles is a singer, pianist and piano teacher.

ARWC members and guests are encouraged to support this program by making reservations not later than Dec. 11. Please phone Virginia Kleiman at 355-4489 or Donna Green, 355-2925.

Nominees for the 1990 board include Jean Cope, president; Pat Janes, first vice-president, programs; Joan Oaks, second vice-president, membership; Jane Reichenfeld, third vice president, ways and means; Joan Lamoreaux, treasurer; and Fran Tifft, recording secretary.

Queen Jenny Chen crowned at T or R ball

Jenny Chen, an 18-year old Cal Poly accounting major, was named queen of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses at a Coronation Ball held at the Doubletree Hotel in Pasadena on Sunday evening. She is the daughter of Jin and Ann Chen.

Sharing in the limelight were the four princesses on the Royal Court and their escorts: Elyse Doublas with her escort, Broc Coward; Kathleen Lechler and Keith Bertonneau; Tricia Stonecipher and Jason Engel; and Jennifer Worsley and Michael Diebold. Doug Holt was the queen's escort.

Queen Jenny, who has never been to a Pasadena Rose Parade, will ride in the 1990 floral spectacular on Arcadia's "Showboat" float which will feature entertainers from the California Music Theatre performing numbers from the showboat era.

Commenting on her being queen, she said ". . . very shocked, very happy, all at once." She also said that it was spectacular, "I had the best time."

Last year's queen, Rosanna Spata, presented the new queen with the perpetual gold pendant and each princess received a necklace courtesy of Goldsmith and Sons Jewelers. The queen also was given the keys to a new 1990 Buick which will serves as her royal carriage through the new year, courtesy of Becherer Buick.

Cliff Goodrich, a past president of the Arcadia T of R, was master of ceremonies for the coronation. During his introductions, his presented his daughter, Lisa, who was celebrating her 16th birthday.

Robin Kleinhampl was chairman of the event; Owen McKimm, as chairman of staging and lighting, created a castle through which the court was presented; and Mikki Porretta chaired the decorations committee which included Betty Amato, Rita Closson, Carol and Sam Falzone, Rose Mary Franco and Joyce Macartney. Music was provided by Christ Tedesco.

Holiday concert set by secondary schools

The program features the high school's symphony orchestra under the direction of Tom Forbes and three vocal performing groups, the A Cappella Choir, Chanteurs, and New Spirit, under th direction of Rollie Maxson.

Admission to this event is $3 for adults and $1 for students with ASB cards, senior citizens, and children under 12. Tickets may be purchased in advance from any participating student or at the box office the night of the performance.

On Wednesday, Dec. 20, at 7:30 p.m. the Foothills Junior High School orchestra and chorus will perform holiday selections in the school's cafetorium.

Dana Junior High School and First Avenue Junior High School will host their holiday concerts featuring the orchestras and choruses on Thursday, Dec. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at their respective school sites. There is no admission charge to the junior high concerts.

Musical holiday programs have been scheduled for December by the instrumental and vocal students from Arcadia High School and Arcadia's three junior high schools. Parents, friends and community residents are invited to attend.

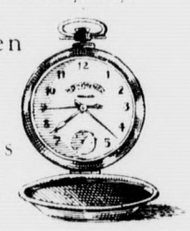

The annual holiday concert presented by the Arcadia High music department will be held Wednesday, Dec. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wilson Junior High Auditorium, 300 Madre St., Pasadena.

Turf Club, four homes decked for holidays

TRADITIONAL TREE AT JENNETTS — A traditional tree with crystal icicles, clear lights, French ribbon and burgundy, pink and celadon opalescent ornaments highlights the living room at the home of John and Ann Jennett, one of four homes which were decorated for the Holiday Homes Tour on Friday.

FREEFORM WREATH OF MANZANITA — A natural wreath is decorated with mauve and green. French ribbons and flowers that have been dried and preserved. This decorates a hallway at the Jennett home as seen on the 35th Annual Holiday Homes Tour.

PROMOTING COOKBOOKS — Pat Wallace offers the Methodist Hospital Auxiliary's newest cookbook which features "tried and true" recipes.

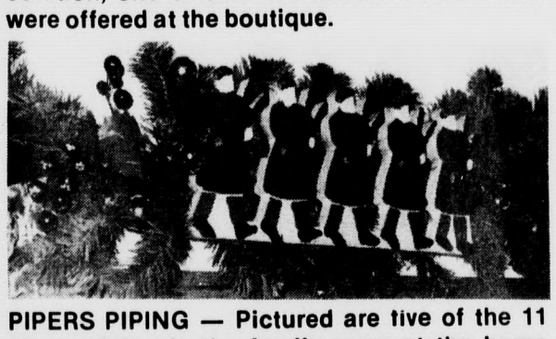

FANTASY OF TREES — Sue Tinker shows some of the 74 miniature and table-top trees which were donated by local merchants and friends of the Methodist Hospital Auxiliary for the traditional Fantasy of Trees which was located in the Turf Club on the day of the annual Holiday Homes Tour.

CANDYLAND SPECIALISTS — Phyllis Bird, Vi Schwartz and Beulah Curry are surrounded by the many items that were available in Candyland located at the Turf Club as part of the Holiday Homes Tour fund-raiser for Methodist Hospital of Arcadia. The trio served as chairmen for Candyland.

HOLGATE OFFERS BOUTIQUE — Kay Holgate, chairman of the boutique which is offered as a part of the 35th annual Holiday Homes Tour, shows a Rudolph-the-Red-Nose-Reindeer decoration, one of over 150 different items that were offered at the boutique.

PIPERS PIPING — Pictured are five of the 11 pipers-piping in the family room at the home of Jack and Phyllis Gruben. Throughout the traditional ranch home, the well-known "Twelve Days of Christmas" were depicted in various ways for the tour. Here the pipers, along with red berries and Christmas greens, decorate a doorway to the patio.

ANGEL BEAR — This bear, all decked with a lace gown and wings, is in the company of a whole wagon full of bears in 2-year-old Jacob Sonnenberg's room. His parents, Roger and Robin, opened their home for the Home Tour which was held to benefit Methodist Hospital of Arcadia.

SEASONED GREETINGS —This wreath complete with wooden seasoning boxes, red raffia ribbon and cinnamon sticks complements the country kitchen belonging to Robin Sonnenberg whose home was featured in the annual Holiday Homes tour.

STAIRCASE DECORATIONS — Iridescent ribbons, dried roses, pinecones and eucalyptus twigs encircle a hunting horn, one of several such arrangements decorating the staircase at the newly constructed contemporary Victorian home belonging to Gary and Joan Jones, one of four residences which were professionally decorated for the holidays and the Holiday Homes Tour.

RUMMAGE TO BENEFIT PROJECT 'DOWN UNDER' — Wendy Crowell (center), who is a student in Arcadia High School's Performing Arts Department, goes over some of the items to be offered in the "Down Under 1990" benefit sale with Kathy and Lee Dawald, event co-chairmen with Mike and Marilyn Daleo.

Old farm equipment given to Arboretum

Ellen Giles of Arcadia hs donated a truckload of harrow and cultivator parts to the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum.

Giles has lived in Arcadia since 1952 when she and her late husband moved from Orange County into a two-story redwood home on what had been Baldwin Ranch property when the city was incorporated in the early 1900s.

The old implements, which will enhance the collection of farm and blacksmith implements at the Arboretum, have limited monetary value, but when cleaned and restored, they will help Arboretum visitors picture the wealth of history fundamental to an understanding of our recent past, explains a spokesman.

Restoration of the old farm equipment will be carried out by members of Las Voluntarias y Los Ayudantes, the Arboretum's volunteer group.

Rummage sale to benefit AHS 'Down Under 1990' trip

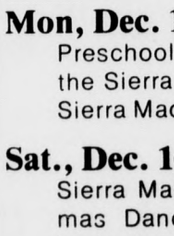

Supporters of the "Down Under 1990" trip to Australia by students in the Arcadia High School Performing Arts Department will hold a sale of previously-owned, once-loved merchandise on Saturday, Dec. 16 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The sale site is on the high school campus at the corner of El Monte and Duarte Rd.

Mike and Marilyn Daleo and Lee and Kathy Dawald, chairmen of the project, report that they have collected a large selection of household items, knick knacks, clothing, tools, appliances, books, toys, games, sporting equipment, electrical items and hardware from the 250 families and friends of the students involved in the performing arts program at Arcadia High.

This sale is one of several projects being conducted to generate funds for the spring trip to Australia by students in the AHS marching and concert bands, auxiliary guards, orchestra, drama and choral groups.

Other projects to be conducted on rummage sale day in an adjacent area are a bake sale of homemade cookies, cakes, muffins and candies as well as the sale of grocery scrip certificates, Christmas trees and holiday ornaments.

Money Matters
Imperial Savings
A WEEKLY GUIDE TO MAKING YOUR MONEY COUNT.

Choosing a Mortgage: 15-year vs. 30-year terms.

One of the most important choices you'll make in the purchase of a home involves the question of financing; should you select the traditional 30-year loan or a loan amortized over a much shorter term say 15 years? Here are the facts you need to make up your mind.

Can you afford the higher monthly payments of a 15-year mortgage?

With today's skyrocketing home prices, is it really possible to pay off a home in 15 years? Generally speaking, the monthly payments on a 15-year mortgage run about 20% higher than on a similar 30-year loan.

Here's an example: Let's say you need a $200,000 loan to buy your house. A 10%, 30-year loan on a mortgage this size carries a monthly payment of $2,220. If we compare that with a 15-year loan at 9.5% (shorter term loans usually have lower interest rates), we will have a payment of $2,700. For an extra $480 each month, your house can be paid for in 15 years. With the 30-year loan, you would still owe $84,000 at the 15 year mark.

Weighing the advantages.

The facts are clear! But do the advantages warrant the higher payments? Many people think so. When you factor in the interest savings (literally thousands of dollars over the thirty years), choosing a 15-year loan can put you even farther ahead.

Is a 15-year mortgage right for you?

Before you lock yourself into a 15-year mortgage, however, it's wise to ask some questions pertinent to your own financial situation.

For instance, how long do you plan to own the property? The longer you do, the more you'll save with a 15-year term. Do you have enough income to qualify for the higher payment amount?

Another thing to consider is the investment advantage of a 30-year loan. Remember, you'll be making smaller monthly payments, so you'll have more money for the purpose of investing.

We'll help you decide.

At the Sierra Madre branch of Imperial Savings, we're dedicated to helping you get the loan that's right for you--whether that means approving your loan at a shorter-term or lengthening the term for more affordable monthly payments.

We also offer EQUAL, an adjustable rate loan that puts you into a home with lower monthly payments to start and with terms ranging from 15 years to 30.

Whether you're a first time home buyer, getting ready to buy your next home, or looking to refinance, we'd like to help you make the right choice. For a free mortgage evaluation, and the answer to why you should select a 15-year mortgage, stop by or call our office at 355-3511.

In the meantime, get ready for next week's topic: the pros and cons of refinancing your home. Until then, happy house hunting.

Spencer Vodnoy named Pacific League co-MVP

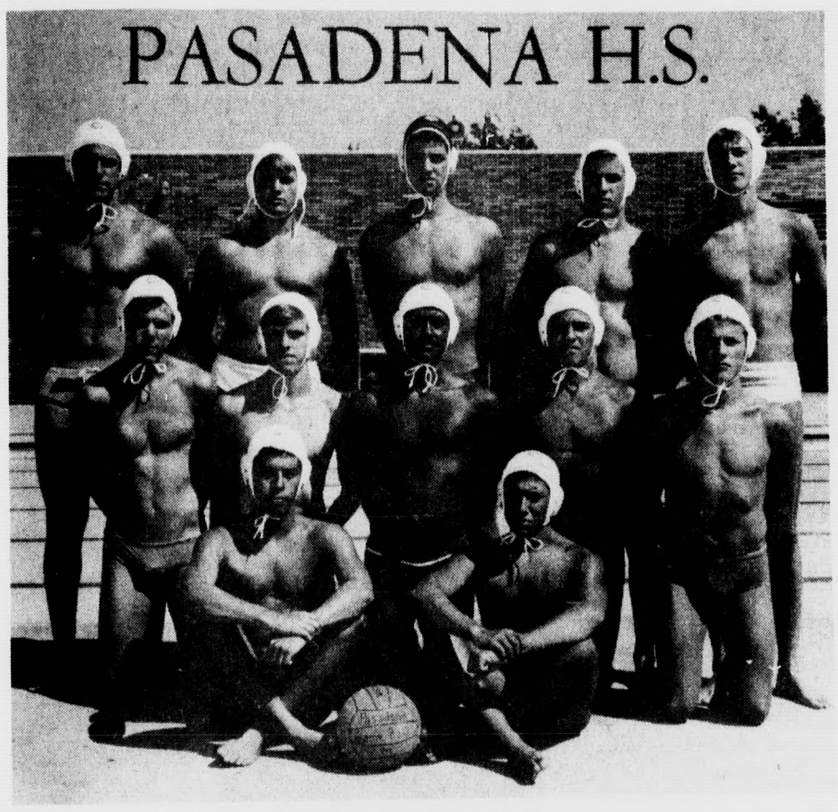

Spencer Vodnoy, who set a Pasadena High School record in scoring this year, was named co-Pacific League Player of the Year in water polo. Vodnoy led the Bulldogs with 104 points in Pasadena's winningest season, 15 wins and a second place finish in league.

It was Pasadena's highest finish since 1974 and only the third time in 30 years of PHS water polo that the Bulldogs have gone into CIF playoffs. This year they lost to Wilson of Hacienda Heights, an eighth ranked team, in the opening round.

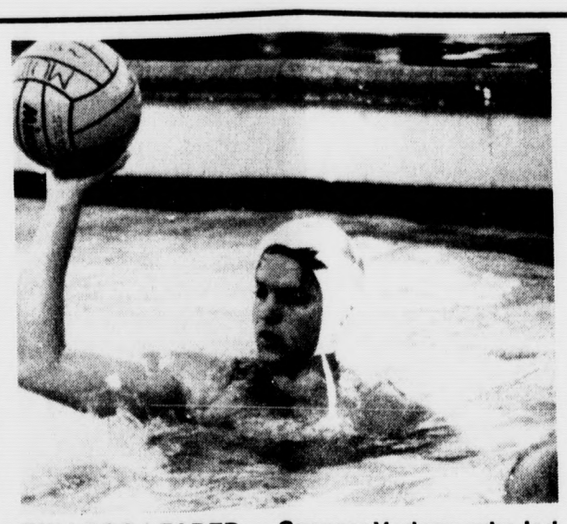

For the first time in 18 years, the PHS team scored a 13-12 come-from-behind win over Muir and lost by only one goal to Hoover, the Pacific League Champions.

For the second year in a row, Jon Wilson was selected for First Team All-League honors while Second Team picks went to Mike Worden, Rafi Kurkdjian and Tom Polenzani.

Other school records to Vodnoy's credit are most goals in one game, when he scored 12 against Temple City; most steals in a season, 39; season average of goals per game, 4.52; most golas in league season, 38; and league goal average, 5.42. He teamed up with Jon Wilson to be the highest scoring dueo for the season and in league competition.

BULLDOG LEADER — Spencer Vodnoy, who led Pasadena High school in scoring this year, is pictured in the Muir game which was won by PHS, breaking an 18-year losing streak.

Parisi leads Apaches in season opener win

Mike Parisi scored 23 points to lead Arcadia High School's basketball team to a 58-52 win over Alhambra in the season opener last Friday night.

The Apaches led throughout most of the game, taking a 30-24 lead at the half. However, by the end of the third quarter, Alhambra tied the game at 43-43 and with just two minutes left in the game, there was another tie, 48-48.

In the final two minutes, Arcadia outscored the visitors 10-4 for the win.

John Speraw had 16 points and 10 rebounds for the winners.

The Apaches are entered in the Arroyo Tournament which began yesterday and will continue through Friday, Dec. 8. Last year, Arcadia lost in the tournament's consolation finals to Blair.

Next week, Arcadia will compete in the Alhambra Tournament, an event in which the Apaches lost fifth place to Franklin last year.

T of R Breakfast Dec. 9

The traditional opening of morning workouts to the public at Santa Anita in Arcadia will take place for the 1989-90 racing season on Saturday, Dec. 9 with a benefit pancake breakfast and other special entertainment features. Hours are 7:30 to 10 a.m.

Starting on Dec. 9 from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. daily visitors may attend the race track to watch horses in training. This free attraction is offered through the conclusion of the racing season next Apr. 23.

The Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association will raise money for building its float for the Pasadena parade on Jan. 1 through the special breakfast on Dec. 9. Tickets at $4 for adults and $2 for children give visitors a breakfast of pancakes, sausage, juice and coffee. Parking is free through Gate 8 on Baldwin Avenue.

In addition to race horses exercising on the track, tram tours will be provided for a narrated visit to the stable area. Well-known jockeys and trainers are identified.

After the workouts, starting a 9:30, the Arcadia High School Marching Band will perform, the Arcadia Rose Queen and Court will be introduced, and Team Rollerblade will put on a dazzling demonstration of dancing and stunts. Rollerblade skates are roller skates with four wheels in a row, similar to ice skates.

Other attractions of the workouts breakfast include special pony rides for children, clowns and magicians, all free of charge. Families may purchase photographs of youngsters with Bugs Bunny and Daffy Duck, as well as with Santa Claus, who will arrive on a fire truck.

Adults and children may take part in horseshoe pitching, with $500 in prize money offered.

If inclement weather should postpone the breakfast, the rain date will be Saturday, Dec. 16.

AHS girls soccer opens with two tourney wins

Freshman Michelle Kennedy, playing in her first varsity soccer game for Arcadia High School, scored a first-half goal in the opening round of the Glendora Tournament on Saturday as the Apaches shut-out La Serna, 3-0. Her goal was assisted by combination passing from Stephanie DeCastro to Missy Talbert to Kennedy.

Collette Connors got a goal at the start of the second half as Talbert got her second assist of the game. Angela Giakas also scored on a free kick.

In the second round of the tournament, Arcadia downed Huntington Beach, 3-0 as Shelby Elliott nailed a penalty kick in the upper left corner for the first score.

Jennifer Wall got a first-half goal on a Tanya Chaputa assist, and Kennedy scored on a pair of passes from Heidi Ramage and Talbert in the second period.

The Apaches will face host Glendora in a semi-final match on Saturday, Dec. 9 at 10 a.m. If they win, they will play the championship game at 2 p.m.; and if they lose the semifinals, they will play for third place in the consolation match at 1 p.m.

Kennedy tapped league MVP

Jennifer Kennedy from Arcadia High School has been named the Most Valuable Player of the Pacific League for girls volleyball.

Teammates Alyson Becker, Colleen Cooke, Erin Johnston and Jennifer Lofftus were selected First Team All-League while, Aimee Peinado was tapped for Second Team and Eileen Agcaoili received Honorable Mention.

Second Team honors also went to Charise Brown and Rosa Salas from Pasadena and Jennifer Griffiths got an Honorable Mention.

PHS finished in third place in the Pacific League in which Arcadia won the championship. Pasadena lost to Thousand Oaks in the first round of CIF playoffs while AHS, which went undefeated in league action, went all the way to the semifinals where the Apaches lost a five-game duel to Esperanza.

Excello Copy dominates youth basketball league

In a contest between two previously undefeated teams in the Arcadia Youth Basketball League, Excello Copy beat Elks by one point, 27 - 26. Chris and Chad Clark contributed nine points for the winners as Tommy Curtis keyed the defense.

Graham Northup had 12 third-quarter points to break the game open for Call's Allstate's 46 - 27 win over Babytown. Paul Gomez had 18 points for Toytown.

Chris Semain scored 16 points to lead Santa Anita Firing Range in a 39 - 22 win over Call's Allstate. Graham Northup, with 13 points, led the scoring for Call's.

Jimmy Efstathion had 12 points for Excello Copy which edged Executive Compensation plans by a score of 39 - 33. The defense was keyed by Chris Hegarty and Steven Padosek. Stephen Lee had six points for Executive which defeated Santa Anita Firing Range 21 - 15 in other action.

Jimmy Efstathiou scored 14 points in an Excello Copy 39 - 25 win over Call's Allstate. Brian Hegarty and Chad Clark chipped in 10 and eight points, respectively, in the winning effort. Graham Northup led Call's with nine points while Daniel Ragstad added seven.

scorers with 16 points in a winning effort for Santa Anita Firing Range over Baby Toytown 39 - 25. Chris Semain had 13 points and was 3 - for - 4 at the free throw line. For Toytown, Paul Gomez led with seven points while Nick Kopinga and Marcus Fernandez each had five.

In other action, Elks defeated Baby Toytown 39 - 34, and Haugen's Sporting Goods defeated Fernandez 45 - 36.

Touring Australians offer concert

A group of 45 musicians from Newcastle, Australia, Arcadia's Sister City, will share their musical ability with Arcadians at a concert on Sunday, Dec. 10, 7 p.m. at the Holly Avenue Elementary School auditorium.

The musical group is made of award winning musicians; 24 are students at Newcastle Grammar School, a K-12 school; and 21 are members of the Newcastle City Concert Band.

Headed by Evanne Sherringham, an accomplished organist and director of music at the school, and Ian Cook, a graduate clarinetist of the Newcastle Conservatorium of Music, who directs the concert band, the group has scheduled an overnight stay in the southland on their way to England.

Barbara Saelid, who has worked with the marching Koalas who have made two trips to Arcadia, explains that Arcadia is so well known in Newcastle that is a highlight of the itinerary of this touring group to include a trip to Arcadia.

Admission to the concert is $3 for adults and $1 for students and senior students.

'Hotshot' basketball contest announced

The Arcadia "Hotshot" Basketball Competition will be held on Saturday, Dec. 9 from 9 - 11 a.m. at the Arcadia High School south gym.

Sponsored by the National Basketball Association, Pepsi-Cola and the Arcadia Recreation Department, the contest is free and open to boys and girls from 9-18 years of age; however, no junior varsity or varsity players may participate, reports a recreation department spokesman.

Each contestant will have one minute to score as many points as possible from any one of the five "hotspots" on the court.

Winners and runners-up for both boys and girls in each of the six categories based on age will receive awards donated by Pepsi-Cola.

Registration will be accepted at the contest.

Winners will advance to the area-wide competition to be held on Jan. 14 at the South Gate Sports Center.

Neighborhood Watch, fire dept. coordinate preparedness meets

With memory of the recent San Francisco Bay area earthquake still fresh, the Arcadia Fire Department is conducting several earthquake preparedness meetings at the Arcadia City Hall.

The first are scheduled today, Thursday, Dec. 7 at 2 p.m. and again at 7 p.m.

A repeat meeting of the preparedness class will be held on Monday, Dec. 11 at both 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Dave Franta and Ken Marston of the Arcadia Fire Department will conduct the meetings which are being coordinated by the Neighborhood Watch Program.

Ravelle Kozak, a volunteer with Neighborhood Watch, points out that in the event of a crisis, it will take at least 72 hours before residents can count on assistance from the fire and police departments. Because of this, she adds, residents must become educated on how to take care of themselves and how to help their neighbors.

"The big one is coming," says Toni Caylor of the Arcadia Police Department, who encourages attendance at these meetings which are designed to help people become prepared "in the best way possible."

For more information contact Caylor at her new number, 574-5174.

Jennifer Wall loses in CIF quarterfinals

Arcadia High School's Jennifer Wall lost in the CIF Division III quarterfinals to Nicole Hummel of San Marino, 1-6, 2-6, at the Irvine Racquet Club last Thursday.

To get to the final eight, Wall defeated Jenny Marques from Laguna Hills High School, 6-3, 6-4.

For the past four years, the Arcadia High senior has qualified for CIF playoffs, losing in the second round as a freshman, losing by default because her coach did not show up in time as a sophomore and making it to the final 16 as a junior.

Wall, who was named Most Valuable Player for the high school tennis team, has put away her racquet for awhile and currently is playing on the AHS girls varsity soccer team.
